Sirs,—Your pills came all right, and I can say they are a good billious pill. I have used a great many pills, but I can say Dr C McLane's Pills, manufactured by Fleming Brothers, are genuine. And, gentlemen, you have my thanks in sending. I gave some of those pills to my neighbors for a trial. One of my neighbors got three pills. He told they did help him. He felt the next day like a new man. He wishes me to send for fifty cents' worth for him. So gentlemen, I will do all I can to introduce Dr C McLane's Liver Pills, manufactured by Fleming Brothers. You will find inclosed one dollar, for more of your good pills. I wish you could send me a sample of your Vermifuge by mail. I think it will take well here.
Yours, with respect,
WM. H. DUGAN.
Please send soon.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Senate Confirms a Number of Appointments.

A STRONG SPEECH FOR HAZEN

Affairs in the Boomer Camp at Arkansas City—General Grant's Condition Remains Hopeful—Railroad Notes

Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The vice president laid before the senate a memorial from the Montana legislature, stating that nearly all the public domain in Montana is desert land, and protesting against repeal of the desert land act.

A resolution for the appointment of an Alaskan committee was laid before the senate, and Manderson moved its reference to the committee of territories. A debate arose, during which Van Wyck attacked the South American commission in a vigorous style. He said the first thing they did was to go to San Francisco, then to Mexico, and then to the New Orleans exposition. Each member was provided with $7500 for his expenses. The commission consisted of two men and a boy, for its chairman remained in Albany. The first thing these two men and a boy did was to hire a palace car at $25 a day, for which the total payment was $1447 before they got to New Orleans. He asked republicans to defeat the measure.

CONFIRMATIONS.

Martin H Montgomery, Michigan, commissioner of patents; Milton J Durham, Kentucky, first comptroller of the treasury; Malcolm Hay, Pennsylvania, first assistant postmaster general; Joseph R Ryan, Nevada, coiner of the mint at Carson City; William Garrard, Nevada, superintendent of the mint at Carson City; J N C Atkins, Tennessee, commissioner of Indian affairs; James D Porter, Tennessee, assistant secretary of state.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS

THE HAZEN COURTMARTIAL.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Judge Mackey to-day concluded a very able argument on behalf of General Hazen, before the general courtmartial. He said the return by the secretary of war to General Hazen of the letter written by the latter was a most gracious act—an act that should have awakened only gratitude in the breast of the chief signal officer. It was so felt, but the sense of gratitude that was felt is marred by the knowledge of the fact that a copy of the letter appears to have been kept. The secretary in this kept his word of promise to the ear, but broke it to the hope. This was not the open blow of a Saxon, but the stiletto stroke of the Italian. Judge Mackey called attention to the fact that the accused was on trial before a court with unchallenged membership. He said that the accused, in thus expressing his confidence in the members of the court, has stated his conviction that in this case the stream will rise above its source. The accused, he said, is aware that while the court is authorized by the president of the United States, the order detailing it was from the secretary of war, who drew the charge, selected the officers to try it, and appointed the prosecuting officer. In closing, Judge Mackey said: "The accused awaits your judgment with confidence. He feels he is locked up in armor of triple steel against this assault. He feels that this Parthian shaft will be shattered on the bright shield of his soldierly record, but if your judgment be against him you inflict a scar broader and deeper than those he now bears upon his body, to attest his honorable services in his country's wars."

The judge advocate, in summing up, simply reviewed the charges and specifications and at the conclusion of his remarks the court went into secret session to consider the case.

A MISAPPREHENSION.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—A misapprehension appears to exist in regard to the office of chief of the appointment division in the treasury department. The present incumbent of the office, Mr Trevott, tendered his resignation about two weeks ago and it was accepted by Secretary Manning, to take effect April 1. Trevott was granted leave of absence till that date. In the meantime Eugene Higgins of Baltimore was given a position on the "fraud roll" of the special agents' division, and assigned to duty as acting chief of the appointment division, and was promised the office as soon as Trevott's resignation shall have taken effect. A question has arisen which may prevent Higgins receiving the office for which he has been selected. If Higgins is permanently appointed without examination it is claimed it will be in violation of the civil service law, but yet in perfect accord with the rules as published by the civil service commissioner. It is understood the matter has been brought to the attention of Cleveland, and he expressed himself as desirous of carrying out to the letter the civil service act, without regard to special rules. If this is done Trevott's place as chief of the appointment division cannot be filled by arbitrary appointment.

CLEVELAND ACCEPTS AN INVITATION

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The president has accepted invitations from the veterans of the first and other corps to visit the battle field of Gettysburg when they make their historical visit there, on the 4th or 5th of May, unless prevented by some urgent necessity of the public service. The president is anxious to be on the field when the leading generals of both armies are there to explain their movements.

TO EXAMINE THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The secretary of the treasury has appointed Assistant Secretaries Fairchild and Coon and Assistant Treasurer Graves a commission, with instructions to make an examination of the treasury department, with special reference to the methods of doing business and to a reduction and rearrangement of the official and clerical force.

THE MEXICAN TREATY

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The senate in executive session ratified an additional article to the Mexican treaty, extending till May 20, 1886, the time for approval of laws necessary to carry into operation the commercial convention between the two governments concluded at Washington January 20, 1883.

THE NEW REVENUE COMMISSIONER

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Mr Miller, the newly appointed commissioner of internal revenue, entered upon the discharge of his duties this morning. He was the recipient of many calls, and during the day received all the principal officers of the bureau.

EARLY ADJOURNMENT EXPECTED

WASHINGTON, March 20.—It is understood that at an informal conference of senators of both parties to-day it was agreed that the senate should adjourn next Monday or Tuesday unless the president shall signify his desire that the session be prolonged.

WADE HAMPTON CRITICALLY ILL.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—It is rumored at the capitol this morning that Hon. Wade Hampton of South Carolina is suffering from blood poisoning, and is in a critical condition.

NEW NOMINATIONS

WASHINGTON, March 20.—New nominations are James D Porter of Tennessee, assistant secretary of state; John D C Atkins of Tennessee, commissioner of Indian affairs.

MORTON NOT ASKED TO REMAIN

WASHINGTON, March 20.—There is no foundation for the statement that President Cleveland has requested Minister Morton to remain at Paris.

TO-DAY'S WEATHER

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Pacific coast, fair weather, followed on the north Pacific by local rains.

EASTERN NEWS ITEMS

AT THE BOOMER CAMP

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., March 20.—Some of the cattle men in the Oklahoma country manifest uneasiness on account of the president's proclamation. One prospecting party passed through here to-day, with a view of securing a ranch in south western Kansas, on which to hold cattle the coming summer. Two more parties are reported on their way from the territory for the same purpose.

A party of colonists arrived overland yesterday from Colorado at the boomers' camp here, and several others are en route. The main body of the colony seems determined to remain here for the present.

Oklahoma settlers have prepared a petition to President Cleveland which will be forwarded by mail to-morrow. Nearly 1500 signatures will accompany the petition. It recites that several hundred citizens from nine respective states, many having their families and household goods and farming utensils are now encamped here, preparatory to settlement in Oklahoma, having disposed of their homes elsewhere. After reviewing the situation and the recent congressional action authorizing the president to open negotiations with the Indians they petition him to appoint a commission to investigate interposing obstacles to settlement of Oklahoma at once and ask that said commission include at least one member known to favor opening Oklahoma to immediate settlement.

SUIT BY A HUMANE SOCIETY

PITTSBURG, March 20.—The humane society of this city entered suit to-day in the United States court against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, alleging that the recent act of congress which provides heavy penalties for all public carriers of live stock for failure properly to care for animals during transportation has been shamefully disregarded, defendant (the company) having allowed live stock shipped from Chicago to be on the road sixty two hours without food, water or rest. The suit is a test one and is brought at the suggestion of the agent of the National Humane Society. Should plaintiffs win the case an attempt will be made to enforce the act in all parts of the United States.

GENERAL GRANT'S CONDITION.

NEW YORK, March 20.—General Grant passed a good night and felt much better this morning. He ate a hearty breakfast. General Grant's daughter, Mrs. Sartoris, arrived to-day from Liverpool.

NEW YORK, March 20.—It is stated here that the Pacific Mail Company will [illegible] fares from here to San Francisco to $75. This will be a reduction of $30 from the present rate. Also that freight rates will be reduced in proportion. This move is reported to be directed against the Union and Central Pacific railroads. Among rumors in Wall street was one to the effect that the Pacific Mail intended putting on weekly steamers in place of fortnightly steamers. Another report is that the Central Pacific to-day formally notified the Union Pacific that the [illegible] and full local rates on all through business from the Union Pacific.

THE WESTERN TRUNK LINE ASSOCIATION

CHICAGO, March 20.—A meeting of general managers of the western trunk line association, otherwise known as lines in the [illegible] agreement, was held here to-day and after the appointment of G B Lake, J C [illegible], John C Gault and George M [illegible] as arbitrators, adjourned until April 2. No arbitrator for the Northwestern road was appointed. The chief point at issue is the status of the Northwestern in the association. The dispute is as to whether business of one of the Northwestern branches or connecting lines should be included in the pool.

THE MEETING AT DENVER

DENVER, March 20.—The Transcontinental Railway Association held a meeting here late this afternoon, for the purpose of reorganizing the transcontinental pool and electing a commissioner to succeed [illegible], who resigned the first of the year. Without entering upon a discussion of matters at issue, the meeting adjourned until to-morrow. All the roads interested are fully represented.

THE FIRE RECORD

A CATHOLIC ACADEMY

EMMETTSBURG, Md., March 20.—St. Joseph's academy, one of the finest Roman Catholic structures in the country, covering a large area, burned to-day. The loss is heavy.

HEAVY LOSS AT BOSTON

BOSTON, March 20.—The works of the Boston Machine Manufacturing company burned to-day. Loss $175,000; insurance $120,000.

NOTABLE DEAD

A WAR VETERAN

CENTRALIA, Ill., March 20.—Hon. T. W. Perrine, a survivor of the war of 1812, died here to-day, aged 93. He was high in Free Masonry, and with a single exception was probably the oldest member of the order in the United States, having been one of the fraternity over seventy years.

THE EAST SIDE

W. B. Gibson returned from a trip up the valley yesterday.

The repairs to Stark street ferry No. 2 have been completed, and she was relaunched yesterday.

Pioneer Engine Company met last evening but transacted no business [illegible] special [illegible].

I. C. Wheeler, district deputy chief councillor, [illegible] O C F, left yesterday to pay fraternal visits to the lodges at Albany and Corvallis. He is accompanied by his wife.

Miss Bertha Breyman is mending rapidly and has dispelled all fear of an unfavorable result. She is now able to sit up and her friends can count upon her recovery at an early day.

The other day Constable Grant of Portland attached a scow lying on the east side for debt and subsequently Constable Thorn replevined the same for W. L. Drummond, by virtue of a bill of sale held by him.

Miss Dora McGrew, daughter of James M. Grew, was married Thursday evening at the residence of the bride's parents, corner of Seventh and W streets, to Mr Arthur P. Cabal of Portland, Rev. J. H. Acton officiating.

The case of Enoch Turner vs. Charles Prettyman was decided by a jury in Justice Simpson's court yesterday, in plaintiff's favor. Defendant took up a horse belonging to plaintiff, who believing the animal was taken up illegally refused to pay the amount demanded as fees by the former, who consequently retained possession of the horse. Plaintiff sued for recovery, and his position was sustained by the jury, who awarded him the horse, with costs taxed to defendant.

The spring term of schools in district No. 2 closed yesterday with most gratifying results to all parties concerned, reflecting credit alike on principal and teachers. The large number of promotions gave evidence of the good work done, the failures being comparatively very few. With the new term, which commences Monday next, a new school will be formed from the overcrowded rooms of the primary department, for which the rear room in the Odd Fellows building has been rented and Miss Aimes engaged as teacher. A new teacher has also been selected for the 5th grade vice Miss Toombs, resigned.

Street Commissioner Bartel yesterday served notice on the City View Park Railway Company by its secretary, W. H. Creighton, to remove the obnoxious track from Fifth and other streets. Both Creighton and the Pacific Rolling Mills Company have claims against the property and are parties to a suit in equity to decide the question of its disposition, and the company claim no right to interfere while the matter is in litigation. It remains to be seen whether the city can act independently and in defiance of the proceedings now pending in the U. S. circuit court.

'They Need Sympathy'

Carefully read between the lines the matter of fact Washington dispatch here appended, then [illegible] to imagine the aggregated misery of hope deferred which rives and shrivels the hearts of the million or more democratic patriots in this country who sit on the ragged edge waiting for the lightning of federal appointment to strike them:

A crowd of twenty or more office seekers hovered about the senate chamber to-day from the beginning until the close of the session. The number included several gentlemen who had been named for high positions but their eagerness to know their fate would not permit them to await the issue of the evening papers, so they [illegible] and waited patiently in the galleries until Major Pruden arrived from the White house with a batch of nominations. When the nominations reached the secretary's office there was a rush for the list. The discovery that it consisted only of a few army promotions created intense disgust.

FOUR MEN HANGED.

The Murderer of Swartz Executed at Salem.

HE DECLARES HIS INNOCENCE

A Negro Murderer Hanged at San Francisco. Two Men Executed at Los Angeles. Pacific Coast News Items

SALEM, March 20.—Joseph Drake was hanged at twelve minutes before 2 this afternoon. Strong efforts were made up to the last moment to induce the governor to commute the sentence, the supreme court itself even signing a paper to him saying that there was a doubt as to his guilt.

The place of execution was in an enclosure about twenty feet [illegible] at the [illegible] of the court house.

At 11 Rev M C Wire of the Methodist denomination entered the condemned man's cell and remained until Sheriff Minto announced that the moment had arrived. The sheriff, John W Minto, Deputy Sheriff E J Croisan and the Rev M C Wire entered the enclosure surrounding the scaffold at 1:30 with the prisoner. The prisoner mounted the steps leading to the platform with a firm step and took his seat near the trap, where he composedly listened to the reading of the death warrant.

DECLARES HIS INNOCENCE

After the reading he was asked if he had anything to say. Mr Wire at this moment urged him to tell the truth, as he was about to be in the presence of his God. Drake arose, and with one foot on the trap spoke substantially as follows. He spoke calmly and deliberately. He said: "I wish to state that I am about to be executed for a crime I am not guilty of. I know nothing about it. I have to give down my life for a deed committed by I know not who. Mr and Mrs Henry seemed to know all about it; I do not. It is very hard to be killed in this kind of a style, in this way for nothing. I lived with Henry about six weeks but did not [illegible] I would not have stayed there. Henry says he was there when Swartz was killed, and he must know who did it, and that I was not there and did not [illegible]."

The prisoner again stated that he was not guilty and knew nothing of the murder. He thanked Sheriff Minto for his attentions and thanked the public generally for their sympathy and for their earnest but unavailing efforts with the governor. He advised everybody to shun bad company, and said: "I am here for no crime committed, but for the company I kept. I have no hard feelings for those who have persecuted me, for they know not what they do. I don't know as I [illegible] to say. I am innocent and suffer this way for what I never did."

A LAST REQUEST

He requested that his friends might receive his body for burial. "I do not wish the doctors to have my body. It has suffered enough already."

At the conclusion of his talk Rev Mr Wire read the twenty-fifth verse of the third chapter of Matthew, after which the hymn "Jesus, Lover of my Soul," was sung. Prayer was then offered.

The prisoner then bade Mr Wire and several others farewell, promising to meet them when their spirits were free. To the sheriff, Mr Minto, he said: "Good bye, John; take care of yourself."

The black cap was then drawn over his face, which was still firm and calm. A moment's delay and the trap was sprung. The neck was broken instantly. At four minutes past 2 the doctors, H. R. Holmes and W. H. Byrd, pronounced him dead, and he was taken down and his body placed in a coffin and delivered to his friends.

STORY OF THE CRIME

On the 4th of May, 1884, Drake, in company with W J Henry, shot David Swartz, an old pioneer, who was returning with a jag of lumber from Simon Bass' sawmill to his home on the Salem and North Howell Prairie road. The murderers lay in wait for their victim in the corner of a rail fence at the turn of the road near the Gilbert school house about two miles from Salem. According to the testimony of Henry, who turned state's evidence, Drake shot Swartz first with a shotgun loaded with buckshot, which not killing him, he finished the job by shooting him again at close range with a pistol. Swartz lingered along until the next morning (the shooting was done at 10 at night) [illegible] conscious when he died.

Suspicion was immediately directed to Swartz's wife, as the parties had for a number of years lived a cat and dog life. The result of the investigation showed that Swartz's wife, Drake and Henry formed a conspiracy to get Swartz out of the way. Through some [illegible] the trial Mrs Swartz got off scot free. Henry was sent to the penitentiary for life and Joe Drake is to be hung.

A NEGRO MURDERER HANGED

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20.—Simeon Jones, the negro murderer, was hanged here to-day at 12:[illegible]. The crime for which the murderer paid the penalty of his life was the murder of Mary Ames Riley, white, his mistress, on June 8, 1883. The execution was announced to be private, permits having been granted only to the medical fraternity, press representatives, and the twelve citizens required to be present by law, yet there were 50 persons present. A few minutes after 12 o'clock the murderer left his cell and passed to the scaffold. The attending priest, Father Barchi, began prayer in a loud voice while the prisoner was being strapped. Just before adjustment of the noose by Chief [illegible] Rodgers Jones said to him: "Make a good job of it." The cap was rapidly placed over the murderer's head and while prayer was still in progress the trap was sprung. Murmurs of horror immediately escaped the spectators' lips when they perceived the writhings and contortions of the dangling body. It was believed that strangulation was the cause of death. After three minutes all movements ceased and twelve minutes after the drop fell life was pronounced extinct. Medical examination showed that the neck had been broken but not in such a manner as to occasion immediate unconsciousness, which usually follows on a perfect execution.

TWO MEN HANGED AT LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, March 20.—Silvas and Martinez, the condemned murderers, were hanged to-day in the jail yard. The execution was delayed more than an hour by a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Silvas, granted by Judge Cheney on an affidavit of Silvas' father. The writ was heard by the judge and overruled. Silvas was then remanded to jail. The two condemned men were then led to the scaffold and at 3:06 the drop fell and Silvas and Martinez were launched into eternity. Death was speedy. They bore themselves bravely to the end and in a speech thanked the sheriffs for past kindness. The crime for which Silvas was hanged was the stabbing to death of a man named McIntyre during an altercation. Martinez murdered a man near San Fernando for $[illegible].00. He displayed no remorse and contemplated the proceedings of the execution as a matter of course.

ALASKA

NEWS BY THE STEAMER IDAHO

VICTORIA, March 20.—The steamship Idaho from the north arrived this morning.

On a small creek, a tributary of Beavers Inlet, good gold diggings have been found. A miner named O'Hara and a party are going up to prospect more thoroughly.

At the Sitka Indian school there has been a row and more of the pupils left in a body.

On Douglas island the quartz mill is progressing rapidly. The building is now up and closed in. The mill, it is expected, will be in working condition in July next, when a very large number of men will be employed. As indicating the extensive character of this enterprise it will be sufficient to mention that for several months last fall the pay roll amounted to $16,000 per month. It is generally conceded to be the biggest mill of the kind on the Pacific coast.

Sheldon Jackson, head of the Presbyterian mission of Alaska, and Mrs Jackson were passengers on the Idaho. They are en route for San Francisco on business of a financial character in connection with that rather extensive parish.

The Capital Guards have moved into their new armory on Fourth street.

AN ENTERPRISING AGENT

Mr John C Percival, agent for the O R & N Co at this place, finding that the steamer Hayward could not reach the wharf at low tide, has had a floating wharf built at his own expense for the accommodation of the public. In view of the fact that passengers had formerly to land on the mud flats at a great risk, this new departure is hailed with delight.

THE SHOOTING OF MR PECK

The wounded man, Mr Peck, is slowly improving, and although very far from being out of danger yet his condition to-day is such as to give his physicians some hopes of his ultimate recovery. His wife has been constantly by his side since he arrived, and has had many sympathizing friends. Mr Arnold, who did the shooting, had a preliminary examination to-day before [illegible], assisted by Justice Crosby. The facts as far as can be learned are that on the 5th inst. Mr Peck called at the residence of Mr Arnold to make inquiries regarding payment for a certain sewing machine which the wife of the latter had been using on trial. He demanded the money for it and on being told by Mrs Arnold that he was unable to pay for it just then it is alleged made some improper remarks which caused the whole trouble between the parties. From the testimony for the defendant it was apparent that Mr Arnold acted in self defense, as the evidence clearly showed that Mr Peck had a pistol in his possession, and exhibited it several times previous to the shooting. From the evidence it also appeared that Arnold and his wife both advised Peck to leave the house as they did not wish to have any trouble, but he swore that [illegible]

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

At a recent meeting of the school board it was decided to close the schools at the end of the present month, there being [illegible] sufficient funds on hand to justify the directors in keeping them open any longer. This action, however, was subsequently reversed provided the teachers would submit to a reduction of 10 per cent in their salaries. As it is generally regarded that the teachers do not receive any more for their services than they are fully entitled to, this action of the board was regarded as rather unusual, the result being that every teacher, from the principal down to the primary department, sent in his or her resignation at once, and now, unless some action takes place in the meantime, it is to be presumed that the schools will be closed at the end of the month. It is, however, generally hoped, especially by those most interested, that the schools will be kept open at least for the coming two months, especially as there has been no objection made on the part of the taxpayers to the special tax recently levied. On the contrary, notwithstanding the hard times, taxpayers seem quite willing to pay the tax so that the schools are kept open, and this ought to be considered as very creditable to this county.

EASTERN OREGON

Notes on Umatilla, Union and Baker Counties

[CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]
BAKER CITY, Or., March 18, 188

Having occasion to go out beyond Pendleton the other day my notice was forcibly and [illegible] pleasantly drawn to the great patches of green extending as far as the eye could reach to the north and west. This was the fall wheat, four to six inches high, giving promise of an immense harvest. To contrast it with the reservation, divided merely by Wild Horse creek, was almost painful. There hundreds of thousands of acres of soil in a virgin state are waiting for the willing husbandman's work to add vast wealth to our young state. Pendleton was quite elated at first over the prospect of the opening of the reservation, but now, not having heard of the bill passing the senate, they are inclined to think it has failed. This place is one of growing importance, and in my opinion it will eventually be the metropolis of the eastern section. Its people are progressive and all seem to take a live interest in their town. The merchants do a large business, but this year are going lower, the same as in all other places. This fact being apparent everywhere, the result will be sure to follow—that is, wholesale men this year must look for only a moderate spring trade. The lack of trade will be counterbalanced by a corresponding diminishing on the Dr. side of account and a gradual introduction of the policy of "paying as you go" and shorter credits.

Sheep-shearing has already commenced in the vicinity of Heppner. The loss of stock through Umatilla county this winter has been very small. Over in Grand Ronde valley the weather has been all that could be desired. Everybody is at work plowing, seeding, etc. This valley, although one of the oldest in the state, is not well known. If there is a more beautiful or fertile spot in Oregon than this I never have seen it. To come out of the Blue mountains on a spring day and see the sunlight [illegible] up the snow-clad mountains that surround it—the valley like an emerald resting in their bosom, the villages dotting it here and there, and all wearing an air of thrift and comfort—is one of the loveliest views in all this land of fine scenery. La Grande, Island City, Summerville and Union, the latter being the county seat, are the principal towns. Here they never had a failure of crops or mosquitoes—the old adage again: No rose without a thorn. The Wallowa, which is adjacent to the Grand Ronde valley, is said to be even a finer country. It is much larger but being more remote is not so well known.

The quantity of hay raised in this country is enormous, and as about all feed their stock during the winter there is seldom much loss. The mountains in the immediate vicinity are covered with timber and show indications of extensive deposits of minerals. Baker City just now is in the "doldrums." Out here they haven't altogether adapted themselves to the new order of things. On every breeze is borne the murmur of what it used to be when old Jack Haley ran stages and the crack of the teamster's whip, pulling freight at one cent and a half a pound and charged on the goods at four, was music in the air. Alas! now bars do it all. Verily, Othello's occupation's gone.

Old Baker is one of the most genial, hospitable places in Oregon. No one goes away but with a kindly recollection. The Powder river valley some day in the near future will produce an immense amount of cereals, fruits, etc., that will be a mine of wealth to this section. Nature has provided everything save the labor to develop it. That she has provided also, but its energies have not as yet been turned this way sufficiently. All of this country is full of minerals and many claims are being worked that pay handsomely. Portland should hold all this trade and assist in the development of this section. If she don't, others will. A trifling percentage of the money lost in stocks put in legitimate mining enterprises would have borne fruit an hundred fold. A proper system of mining, such as is pursued in this country, is as truly legitimate business as a grocery store and with no more hazard. There are strong attachments binding all of this upper country to Portland, both of business and otherwise, and we must not let others enjoy the fruit we have seen grow and ripen. From the amount of talk heard in some quarters one would imagine that between Portland and this section there was a bitter war. This is not so. The business men, and I might say men of all classes save politicians—who for some reason prate on this subject—are friendly to Portland and want her to continue as she has been, the commercial center of the northwest. Their relations have always been of the friendliest, and now because the railroad is completed must we change? The Portland merchants formerly charged big profits. So did the retailers and the farmers got $1 a bushel for grain and [illegible] to 20 cents for bacon. Everybody will gradually [illegible] themselves to the changed condition and we will hope that peace and harmony will prevail.

All Portland has to do is to develop the spirit of enterprise that reaches beyond its limits and comprehend that the growth of all is the seal of her future greatness.

Old Copperhead Tom. and His Patronage.

Chicago Herald.

The vice president, after a diligent search and careful inventory, has discovered that the patronage at the disposal of the occupant of his high office is as follows:

1. Private secretary.
2. Telegraph operator for senate.
3. Keeper of senate restaurant.

To a man of large ideas of things and lordly disposition this frugal layout would appear insignificant, but to a person of humility, modesty and true goodness like Mr Hendricks, it will go a great ways. He may not be able to provide for all his friends at once, but he can give each of them a month's tenure, and in that way keep them along until it is time to elect delegates to the next national convention. A point in Mr Hendricks' favor is that he is not bound by the civil service rules in making these appointments. He can boost the rascals every day if he wants to and make new appointments. The senate cannot help itself, either. Those three offices are his meat, to have and to hold for his own glory and the benefit of the democratic party as long as he pleases or until the expiration of his term.

He is now at work on the matter of appointments, and hopes to be able to announce his decision before the end of the week. While thankful for all advice tendered in good faith by democrats he is careful to have it understood that he is vice president and that Grover Cleveland must keep at a respectful distance and let him alone. The three appointees will be Jackson democrats, and the man who feeds at the restaurant will eat pork and corn dodger or he will not eat at all. Persons desiring to apply for any of these positions will do well to forward their papers at once. Mr Hendricks rather enjoys it. In fact he is enjoying everything these days.

How to Put an Egg in a Bottle

A writer in the Po[illegible] New Yorker tells the young folks how they may perform the magic feat of putting an egg into a bottle. Like many other things it is easy enough when you know how. This is the way it is done: Soak a fresh egg for several days in strong vinegar. The acid of the vinegar will eat the lime of the shell so that while the egg looks the same it will be soft and capable of compression. Select a bottle with the neck a third smaller than the egg. With a little care you will have no trouble in pressing the latter into the bottle. Fill the bottle half full of lime water, and in a few days you will have a hard shelled egg in a bottle with the neck a third smaller than the egg. Of course you pour off the lime water as soon as the shell hardens. How the egg got into the bottle will be a conundrum that few can answer.

A DESPERATE BATTLE

The British Troops Defeat the Forces of Osman Digma.

THE BATTLE LASTS FIVE HOURS

The Arab Loss Estimated at 600, and the British at 60—The Irish Lancers Make a Daring Charge and Save the Day

LONDON, March 20.—The Telegraph's Suakim special says a five hours' battle was fought this morning between British troops and the forces of Osman Digma. Osman's position was finally captured by the British. The Arab losses are said to be very great.

OSMAN DIGMA'S POSITION CAPTURED BY THE BRITISH

SUAKIM, March 20.—The British forces set out again this morning at daylight in the direction taken yesterday. They carry two days' rations and 23,000 gallons of water, and have six Gardner guns. A battle is believed imminent on the hills beyond Hasheen.

PARTICULARS OF THE BATTLE

LONDON, March 20.—General Graham telegraphs as follows:

HASHEEN, March 20, 3:30 P. M.—We moved out from camp at 6:15 this morning, leaving the Shropshire regiment to guard it. On reaching the first hill at 8:30 A. M. we found the enemy had retired and occupied another hill a mile and a quarter distant. After a short halt the Berkshire regiment and the marines were ordered to clear the hill, the Indian contingent and the Guards supporting. This was done very effectually, the enemy being driven off the ridge and streaming south towards Tamai, where they were charged by squadrons of the Indian lancers in the bush. The cavalry then retired towards the Guards. Many of the enemy passed the Guards at the foot of the hill and made for a hill west of Hasheen. These were shelled by the Royal horse artillery, while other parties moving round our right were engaged in the bush by fifty lancers.

Meanwhile a zareba with four intrenched posts on a hill commanding were being formed. The advanced troops have all returned to this position and will return to our camp, leaving the East Surrey regiment, with two Krupp guns and four Gardners and water tanks and signal appliances at the intrenched position.

Our killed are two officers and two men of the British and five Sepoys. The wounded are two officers and twenty six men of the British and one officer and ten men of the Indian contingent. The infantry behaved with great steadiness. The number of rebels is estimated at 4000. The rebel loss is not known, but was heavy. The engagement lasted five hours. The Arabs carried off all their dead and wounded.

Natives report that numbers of Osman Digma's men are deserting, having become disheartened. To-day's fighting was noticeably of a different character from that of any preceding engagement. The Arabs maintained a steady rifle fire, retiring slowly from each position held by them, and avoiding close quarters.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT

SUAKIM, March 20.—The battle between the British troops and Osman Digma lasted five hours. The marines were first sent to the front to drive the Arabs from the hills west of Hasheen. As soon as possible they were reinforced by batteries of Gardner and Krupp guns and by cavalry. There was a hot engagement for a few hours, during which the British cavalry charged repeatedly upon the Arabs, while machine guns were worked with deadly effect whenever their fire could be made available. Great bravery was displayed on both sides during the engagement. The Arabs retreated slowly toward Tamai. The Arab loss in killed and wounded is estimated at 600. The loss of the British is 40. The Arabs displayed desperate bravery. The marines drove the Arabs from the hills and forced them to retire to the plain. Then the Indian troops charged the Arab position, but were outflanked, and an unsuspected body of Arabs succeeded in getting behind their lines. The Indians found themselves between two fires and fled. During their retreat they were closely pressed by Arabs, who hamstrung their horses and speared the riders. The Bengalese fell back in confusion upon the English infantry and the guards, who had been formed into a hollow square leisurely retired while the Arabs were yelling that they had regained their lost position. At this juncture the artillery came to the rescue and a brisk fire of small shot from the machine guns and shells from the Krupp field mortars drove the Arabs from their positions.

The marines maintained steady firing throughout the engagement, but the honors of the day are probably due to the Irish lancers, who changed the tide of battle by a desperate charge and retrieved the fortunes of General Graham's command when they seemed almost hopeless. The British troops have returned to their former camp near Suakim.

A DISPATCH FROM GRAHAM

LONDON, March 20.—General Graham telegraphs General Wolseley that the result of his operations has been to establish a strong position commanding the Hasheen valley and protecting the right flank and line of communication in ensuing operations against Tamai. All portions of his force, he says, worked admirably and gallantly on very difficult ground covered with high thorn bushes, and occupied by an agile and determined enemy, thus showing that the troops are able to master the Arabs in any position. The total loss of the British was eleven killed and forty nine wounded.

NEWS FROM THE REBEL CAMP

KORTI, March 20.—Natives state that the rebels have returned to Berti and Shukuk pass and are fortifying those places. A messenger from Omdurman says the name of the new prophet is El Sanosi. The latter accused El Mahdi of disobeying the Koran. El Mahdi quarreled with and dismissed his principal chief Abdullah and installed his own uncle in his place. The late chief's tribe has since deserted the Mahdi. The rebels are reduced to eating the pith of palm trees. The British will evacuate Korti at the end of the present month.

THE BRITISH TROOPS RETURN

SUAKIM, 7 P. M.—The British troops have returned to this point. Osman Digma sent reinforcements numbering 1000 to Hasheen Thursday night to assist in opposing the British.

CENTRAL AMERICA

BARRIOS ENRAGED AT ZALDIVAR

NEW YORK, March 20.—A Tribune special from New Orleans says the latest news from Guatemala represents President Barrios as in a frenzy of rage with Dr Zaldivar of San Salvador. He says that owing to many favors extended by him to Zaldivar he expected his assistance in the recent movement, whereas Zaldivar, by his defiance and appeal to Mexico, materially interfered with his plans. Barrios threatens to have a settlement with Zaldivar as soon as the relations of Guatemala with other Central American states are determined, which is construed as meaning that he will make war on San Salvador. The Guatemala press, in which nothing is published except with the consent of the government, declares a readiness to fight the whole world. American papers have been prohibited from going into Guatemala. A decree that Barrios was to send to the senate declaring war, as a necessity to accomplish his ends, has not been submitted to that body, and on account of the interference of Mexico probably will not be.

ENGLAND.

THE EGYPTIAN QUESTION

LONDON, March 20.—The conservatives have made overtures to a number of liberals, discontented with the Egyptian convention, for the formation of a coalition. Goschen refused to accept the proposition and will support the government. The radicals approve the agreement, as tending to the early withdrawal of the British forces from Egypt. The government expect a division in the commons on the bill to sanction the Egyptian loan.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

LONDON, March 20.—Fitzmaurice, under foreign secretary, in the house of commons this afternoon stated that the government recognized the right of France to search for contraband all neutral vessels bound for China. Fitzmaurice denied that Lord Wolseley has been appointed governor of the Soudan.

IRELAND.

WILL IGNORE THE PRINCE'S VISIT

CORK, March 20.—The mayor of Cork has publicly announced his intention officially to ignore the visit of the prince and princess of Wales.

General Corse's Wound

Cincinnati Commercial Gazette

General Hickenlooper tells a good one on General Corse. It was at Altoona that a rifle ball took Corse alongside of the head. General Sherman received word from General Corse that his ear and a portion of his cheek bone were gone, but that he was still able to hold his position and fight it out.

As soon as possible Sherman got over to see him, full of anxiety for him. He found Corse with his head swathed in bandages and in his anxiety to know the nature of his injuries impatiently ordered the surgeon to remove the cloths. This was done slowly and with great formality, and there was revealed a slight scratch of the cheek and a hole in the ear.

Sherman looked intently at it and calmly remarked: "Why, Corse, they came damned near missing you, didn't they?"

A Russian Officer on the Chinese Army

London Spectator, Feb 21

Every Chinese soldier is an opium smoker and through indulgence in this vile habit loses in a short time both physical strength and moral capacity. The so-called infantryman will never walk if he can help it; he either gets a horse or joins two or three others at a wagon. He seldom carries his musket, preferring if mounted, to fasten it to his saddle, or if he ride in a wagon he throws it inside. Being himself too lazy to keep his equipment in order, he confides it to the care of a Mongol or Dungarian. For a Chinese soldier a bivouac, especially in bad weather, is altogether intolerable. He spends his time in drinking tea, smoking opium and fanning himself. When musketry practice is going on the officers stay in their tents and drink tea. Their strategic knowledge is of a piece with their ideas of discipline. Of honor or of duty they have not the faintest conception. The Chinese soldier goes into battle only under compulsion, and with the full intention of running away on the first opportunity. If we consider further the antipathy of the Chinese people to foreign ideas and influence, there is no fear of such a reorganization of their military system as will bring it up to the European standard of efficiency. The ignorance, the demoralization, the bad spirit which prevails throughout the entire army can be overcome only by a complete reorganization of the nation.

The "Mugwump" and Democratic Dilemma.

From the New York Sun.

If the president appoints Pearson, he will please the independent republicans. If he appoints a satisfactory democrat he will please the democrats. The new administration may make itself really democratic and may direct itself toward satisfying the desires of the democracy, or it may direct itself toward satisfying the desires of the independent republicans. In the latter case, it is clear that Mr Cleveland can hardly avoid a breach with the democracy. It is possible, of course, that such a breach may not be fatal to him and to his administration. But experience does not favor this hypothesis. John Tyler tried this and came to grief, and how can Mr Cleveland succeed if he should begin by alienating the democracy from his support? What strength would he have in the house of representatives? What influence would he exert upon the legislation of the next congress? How would the election go in the empire state next fall?

THE BUTTER THAT WE EAT.

Chicago Evening Journal.

While much is said about the various kinds of artificial butter, but few people know how they are manufactured. There are good kinds and bad kinds—some very bad. The best varieties are made with much care; they are clean and wholesome, they have almost the exact chemical qualities of butter, and, except for the prejudice against them, are as good as butter for the table or for any household use. It is not certain whether the bad imitations of butter are not quite as wholesome and quite as fit to eat as bad genuine butter.

A large proportion of the best creamery butter and of cream and milk are used in manufacturing the best artificial butter. The balance of the composition consists of various pure animal and vegetable oils. The oil mostly in use for this purpose is extracted from beef fat, and is undoubtedly the precise oleaginous matter which enters into the fat cells of milk and cream from which butter is churned. Neutral oil, which is the oil of hog's lard thoroughly deodorized, and cotton-seed oil are also used for this purpose. Sesame oil, the product of a plant known as Arachis, is also coming into use, and is declared to be superior to other vegetable oils for blending with the oleine of beef fat in the manufacture of artificial butter.

To make the best artificial butter, these materials—the genuine creamy butter constituting perhaps one-fourth of the whole—cream, milk and the oils to be used, with the coloring matter, are all churned by steam machinery. By this process "the butter comes" as naturally as in the dairy-farmer's churn, and it is then "worked," salted and prepared for market precisely like butter. If it is well made, and only pure materials are used, no expert can tell the difference between the real and the bogus butter. In fact, the chemical analysis is almost the same, as is shown by the following formula:

	Butter.	Oleomargarine
Water	9.12	9.12
Fats	83.35	83.35
Salt	.06	.06
Curd	1.03	[illegible]
Insoluble fatty acids	89.92	91.96
Soluble fatty acids	.66	1.00

It is probable that different qualities of butter would show on analysis a greater difference in their elements than is found in the analysis above given.

This is the most favorable side of the oleomargarine question. If nothing more could be said, the evil would not be great. The oleomargarine industry would not interfere with the butter industry, because its manufacture would create a special demand at a high price for an immense quantity of the best butter; it would create a demand for certain beef products which would increase the price of cattle; and it would furnish a cheap and clean substitute for butter far preferable to bad butter for food and household use.

But there is a worse side of the artificial butter question. It may be made from oil extracted from any filthy or diseased animal matter; it may be made cheap and nasty, and as little fit for food as any infected or putrid meat product. When the spurious article is sold as the genuine article, a fraud is perpetrated and the buyer is cheated. Manufactured and sold as butter, it is an illicit trade, founded on deceit, and a rascally imposition. But, if fraud and deceit are not used in its sale, as little can be reasonably said against really good imitation butter as against the sale and use of any other wholesome but cheaper substitute for a high-priced article of food or for any article used in the domestic economy.

CONGRESS A COLLECTION AGENCY.

At least 90 per cent of the business introduced in the last session of congress was left undone. One main reason for this was that so much time was taken up in the consideration of such petty and trifling matters as pension claims, private and local grievances, and other small matters appealed to the national legislature by the constituents of obsequious congressmen. Senator Edmunds alluded to this growing evil in his retiring speech to the senate as did also Mr. Carlisle in the house. All just claims against the United States ought to be paid promptly, and if there is no way of getting them paid except by bringing them into congress, no one can blame the creditors of the government for using this means. It is the fault of congress that the executive departments and courts of justice are not authorized to hear and determine such matters. From the decision of tribunals authorized to adjudicate upon them there should be allowed no appeal to congress—unless in exceptional cases, and then upon the recommendation of the tribunal, when it is unable to determine the equities of the case. At present quantities of these private claims have been passed upon by the pension bureau or courts of justice or court of claims, and then taken to congress because the claimants have failed to establish their cases. This is done through the indulgence of senators and members, who hope to secure by personal favor what cannot be gained at law.

It is asserted that more bills of a private and local nature were introduced into the house during the last session than during the first half century of the existence of our country. A glance at the Congressional Record will show page after page filled with debates on such questions as whether a certain pension claimant shall have a retroactive claim on the government for $300 or $400. The time spent in disputing over matters of a few hundred dollars undoubtedly often costs the country as many thousands.

The consideration of these private bills was not the only reason for the extreme dilatoriness and final haste in disposing of the public business. For Mr. Randall announced early in the session that he intended to hold the appropriation bills until the last few weeks of the sitting and then force them through to the exclusion of everything else. He had two reasons for this. One was to shut out legislation on the tariff and the other to get his bills through the house substantially as he and his associates on the appropriation committee prepared them. He carried both of these points, but he has the responsibility now resting upon him of giving the Pacific Mail subsidy an opportunity to get through. The pretext for delay and neglect, furnished by the introduction of private bills ought, however, to be removed, and if congress would consent to limit its own power, give wider jurisdiction to the court of claims and make the decisions of the courts and departments final, to a far greater extent than at present, the important business in which the general public is interested would be more promptly and honestly done.

AN INTERESTED PROTEST.

The New York papers pretend to regard the failure of the river and harbor appropriation bill as a scarcely less than providential hindrance of an outrage upon the tax-payers of the country. They assert, without attempting to prove it, that the measure was a gigantic "steal" devised in the interest of politics and politicians, and in no practical way capable of benefiting commerce. The purpose of all this is easily understood. The New York press cares nothing for the appropriation of a few millions of dollars as a mere matter of expenditure, but it cares a great deal for a measure which proposes to make any part of the country less dependent upon New York. It does not want better shipping facilities at Baltimore. It does not want deeper water at the mouth of the Mississippi. It does not want any improvement anywhere which can affect in the slightest degree the commerce of New York. Such improvement, in its philosophy, is a direct disadvantage to the "commerce of the country."

An easy way to hinder development at Baltimore and elsewhere is to denounce all appropriations for river and harbor work, and this is done not honestly upon the actual grounds of objection, but upon one or another imagined or invented pretext designed to conceal the real motive of local selfishness and to enlist the co-operation of the whole country. Thus it protests upon general grounds of assumed virtue likely to attract popular support and to throw off attention to the merits of the main issue. It is not believed that the annual river and harbor bill is an iniquitous "divide," or that its funds are not in the main honestly spent for the public good. It is true that money has occasionally been appropriated to localities where no improvement was needed, but these instances are comparatively rare. The engineer corps of the army, under whose direction the river and harbor work is performed, has not been accused of corrupt use of the money. The public benefits of river and harbor work are beyond calculation. New York itself enjoys now and will forever advantages resulting from public expenditure in her interest, and now only objects to such expenditure because she has no more favors to ask.

The country should not be deceived by an effort made to secure its disapproval for its own disadvantage. And particularly the newer sections like Oregon should not join in condemnation of the measure which is to them the most important of all national legislation. We need aid in the development of the country, and a great deal of it, and in future we should demand it with a more earnest will than ever before.

A "NOBLE REVENGE."

Prohibitionists claim that their cause is making great progress in the southern states. John L. Thomas of Maryland, has issued an address to the "prohibition army" of the south, in which he says that the south, through its great power in the national government, can play a leading part in forcing prohibition on the north, and this he urges the south to do. "The south," he exclaims, "must now start a crusade which shall emancipate the north. Glorious retaliation! Noble revenge!" When the south goes in to "get even" on this basis one may expect to see other remarkable things, among them possibly that amazing catch of larks which it is confidently believed will ensue when the skies fall.

A prohibition organ essays to help the matter by inviting the "crusade" from the south for "emancipation" of the north, in these words, "Heaven knows we need the emancipation, and we depend upon our southern brethren to a great degree to assist us in obtaining it. Gentlemen, will you meet us half way? We ask you to leave the national democratic party, as we leave the national republican party. Let us meet under a new banner, and join ranks for a crusade in which sectional issues and race issues shall be buried deeper than Atlantis. A solid south and a solid north are a standing menace to peace and prosperity. The prohibitionists of the north have broken the one. Will the prohibitionists of the south break the other?"

The simplicity that proposes these conditions is really too extreme to serve any useful purpose in this world of practical things. In parts of the south there are doubtless a good many prohibitionists; but there is as yet no proof that the subject is regarded in the south as one of any real importance. Certain it is that no southern state has a prohibitory law. Through local option county prohibition has been secured in some parts of the southern states, but as the population in those counties is almost wholly rural and little demand exists for liquors, there is virtual prohibition, through abstention, without law. The south has fewer towns and cities than the north, and yet it would be as absurd to suggest prohibition in southern towns and cities as in northern ones.

No intelligent person can overlook the fact that the prohibitionists of the south are democrats first and prohibitionists afterwards. The southern man in former times said that his first allegiance was due to his state. The southern prohibitionist of the present day does not forget that his first allegiance is due to the democratic party. An appeal to him to leave the democratic party, on any pretext whatever, is about as effective as would be an appeal to the brother in black to change his color. He is "solid" for all time on the memories of slavery and of the war. He stays and will always stay with the democratic party because it staid with him through that long and trying struggle, and though he may believe in prohibition of the liquor traffic, he will treat it always as a "local question," and never will take such action upon it as will be likely to hurt the democratic party in any important election. On the whole, the southern prohibitionist is not likely to "leave the democratic party" to push any "crusade" for "emancipation" of the north. He will forego that "noble revenge."

To stimulate the office-seeking appetite and to make money by ministering to it, C. H. Pettit & Co., Washington, D. C., have published a register of offices and clerkships and other civil positions under the United States government, together with the salaries thereunto appertaining. This "blue book" includes all the positions at the national capital and in every state, territory and foreign country, at the disposal of the president and the departments—except the postoffices where the compensation is less than $500 a year. In these minor places no high-minded democratic citizen will take any interest, and therefore they are well enough omitted from the list. This invaluable book, which may well be called the "American Gentleman's Vade Mecum, or Office-Seeker's Guide," is sold by George H. Hill & Co. of this city at a price that puts it within reach of the most indigent citizen who may be ambitious to serve his country for a salary. The whole list—with the exceptions noted—is there; so you can start in for a first-class foreign mission and if you can't get that you can come down on the sliding scale till you obtain at least the baton of a letter-carrier, porter or night watchman. It is an exhilarating book—to those who feel the need of that kind of literature.

Everybody who sends many letters through the mail knows how embarrassing and disagreeable it is to have to test each one by the scales, or guess its weight before deciding whether to apply one or two stamps. When a person is in a hurry the annoyance of such a delay is considerable. After the 1st of July next most of this will be done away with. The clause in the postoffice appropriation bill taking effect at that time, which changes the unit of weight of letter postage from half an ounce to an ounce, will make letter scales of comparatively small account, as not one letter in a thousand weighs over an ounce. The ounce has long been the standard of letter-postage in England, and there has been a general demand for years that it should be adopted as the unit in this country. One result of the change, probably, will be to increase the thickness and weight of letter paper in ordinary use.

News comes from Yakima that the old town has been given depot facilities. This is right. It was a piece of injustice, and of folly besides, to refuse to stop at a town of 600 people doing an annual business of $300,000. The best policy for the Northern Pacific will be to keep out of townsite speculation. No possible return can compensate for the ill-will which such a course must arouse. And it should not be forgotten that the general public, through its great grant of land is the largest shareholder in the Northern Pacific company. The public has not and will not forget this fact, and the company will save "trouble and costs" by recognizing it without protest.

The Harvard faculty has finally decided not to make attendance at prayers optional. Its members certainly do not act up to the logic of the situation. If young men, as President Eliot affirms and as the faculty has decided, are capable at their entrance into college of deciding for themselves what line of study is best adapted for the development of their minds why not give them—especially when the wishes of their parents are taken into consideration, as it was expressly stipulated they should be, in the students' petition for the abolition of compulsory religious exercises—equal liberty of choice as to the development of their moral and spiritual natures?

Cocaine, the new anæsthetic, has greatly relieved General Grant's sufferings, and as it may be used to produce local insensibility, without affecting the general consciousness, its value promises to be exceedingly great. The fact that it has been employed in General Grant's case has given it especial prominence in recent discussions, and in his address before the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania Dr. Keen, the distinguished professor of surgery, urged that its discovery ought to silence the objectors to vivisection, for without experiments on animals its value would still remain unknown.

The Latin Union, the monetary league formed in 1865 to secure uniformity of weight and fineness for the gold and silver coins of the Latin nations, expires by limitation the present year. The next union—for one will without a doubt be formed—should go a step farther and endeavor to fix, as far as possible, the relative values of silver and gold, so that a uniform standard may be adhered to by the nations represented in the union. If this should be done by these nations, it would go far to fix the standard for the civilized world.

Now the democrats in Illinois lose a member of the legislature by death. This event will still further postpone the election of United States senator. Probably a democrat will be elected to fill the vacancy, as the county where the deceased member lived is strongly democratic.

It is evident that the Philadelphia Times does not want the silver, for it says: "Let Uncle Sam buy the Mammoth cave, and use it as a rat hole to drop the silver dollars in."

AMMONIATED BREAD

Ammoniated baking powders—that is, baking powders in which carbonate of ammonia is used as an ingredient, and which exhale an odor of ammonia when heated—are classed by many eminent physicians and sanitarians as superior to all others. Professor Hassell, of London, who is recognized as highest authority on the subject of food hygiene, commends in the strongest terms the use of carbonate of ammonia as a leavening agent, stated its great advantage to be in its perfect volatility, which permits it to be, by the heat of baking, entirely thrown into leavening gas, whereby the bread is raised. The experiment with heat would seem to indicate the superior, not the inferior, value of such baking powder. The little heat that is imparted to it when held over a gas jet, lamp or stove, suffices to resolve the the carbonate of ammonia into leavening gas and throw it off. The first heat of baking, therefore, will effectually develop all the gas, thoroughly leaven the loaf, and dissipate the gas-producing ingredients of a powder of this kind, and this is the highest test of a perfect baking powder. Where other alkalies alone are used they are not infrequently retained, unresolved, through the whole process of baking, and remain an unwholesome ingredient in the finished bread. The carbonate of ammonia cannot be used as a substitute for cream of tartar.—V. Y. Weekly Tribune.

THE YAKIMA COUNTRY.

Observations of a Special Correspondent of The Oregonian.

NORTH YAKIMA, W. T., March [illegible]

[illegible] its progress from the Columbia river westward toward Puget sound, the Northern Pacific railroad has penetrated the heart of Washington territory. Its present and temporary terminus is this new town, which lies in the center of [illegible] the Yakima country, [illegible] miles from the point of junction with the main line at Ainsworth.

[illegible] this region is a new [illegible] [illegible] sought [illegible] a quarter of a century ago, and yet it is in all its conditions a new country. Its settlement [illegible] have been too [illegible] and [illegible] to give [illegible] even the look of [illegible] and

HELPLESS ISOLATION

Has hindered [illegible] the smallest development of its natural resources. It has been useless to produce anything which could not carry itself to market, and so practically the energy of the country has been devoted to stock-raising. Nothing more has been done in the way of agriculture than to supply the local needs, and only such general business has been carried on as would answer the demands of a scattered community of stock growers and local supply farmers. Cattle and horse breeding has been the chief occupation of the people and their chief source of income.

The Yakima country, in the local sense in which I use the phrase, is that part of middle Washington between the Yakima Indian reservation and the Kittitas valley, north and south, and between the Cascade mountains and the Yakima river, east and west. The reservation is in fact the very heart of Yakima, but being forbidden ground it is, for the present, as if it were not at all.

CHARACTER OF THE COUNTRY.

The region above described is very similar in its general features to the country about Walla Walla in Washington territory, and Pendleton in Oregon. Heavily rolling elevated lands alternate with narrow valleys, through each of which courses a considerable stream, having its abundant and unfailing source in the snows of the Cascade mountains. Over all grows the gray brown sage of the plains and, excepting the willows which line the water courses and the scattering plantations of the settlements, there is not a tree in the whole region. In general the near prospect is colorless, dull and tame, but the connecting gorges between the valleys are often rugged and picturesque, and the mountains towering in the west give to what would otherwise be tiresome scenes the charm of variety and the inspiration of grandeur.

CLIMATE.

The climate of this country is pretty much like that of the whole region east of the Cascades, only that it is modified by altitude and proximity to the mountains. The country suffers at times, but not for long, the extremes of heat and cold, but so relieved by the dryness of the air that their effects are not so distressing as for lesser degrees in other localities. The serious business of winter usually begins in late November with a heavy snowfall, which lies on the ground six or eight weeks. During that period there is commonly a good deal of rough weather, rain, snow and cold; but it is succeeded in January or early February by the perfection of spring weather, unmarred by severity of heat till July. The Yakima country of course is not exempt from the usual unusualities of seasons. The past winter, for example, so severe in many other places, was here exceptionally brief and mild. January, February and March have been smiling and lovely as May. The summer heats here, while sometimes extreme at mid day, are not continuous as in the Atlantic and western states. The mountain airs descend with the dusk of evening, and night always brings coolness and rest. No climatic record has ever been kept and the wide difference between the statements of old settlers prompts the enquirer to a general lack of faith. Nobody that I asked about the rain all could give a guess as to its annual quantity. There is no wet season as in western Oregon and Washington, but the season of deciduous rains begins in November and continues till March. Much the larger part of the precipitation comes in the form of snow.

THE SOIL AND ITS CAPABILITIES.

Lack of moisture is the great obstacle in the way of the agricultural development of the country. The sky is cloudless from April to October, and the warm summer sun dries the whole surface of the country into powder. But what nature has denied in one form she supplies, or at least makes available, in another. Of water there is abundance everywhere, flowing eastward from the mountains to the Columbia, and the slope of the land is sufficient to bring nearly all of it under the effect of ditches, which can be easily and cheaply cut through the soft soil. Only the hilltops and a few patches of scabland lie inaccessible to irrigation, and only water is needed to make these wide sage wastes blossom into varied fruitfulness.

The soil is very like that of the Walla Walla valley. It is decomposed lava, strongly impregnated with alkali, fructified by the repose of ages. Its native product was bunch grass, interspersed with sage bushes, but cattle have well nigh grazed and trampled the grass out of life. The sage now has practically undisputed hold, and the small spaces between bushes are oftener [illegible] barren than otherwise. The native tendencies of the soil, however, are still strong, and where the sage is uprooted its place is supplied by a luxuriant growth of bunch grass. Wherever trees are planted they grow with uncommon thrift, and experiments through several seasons have demonstrated the capability of the soil, if properly watered, to produce the whole variety of growths which thrive in the temperate zones.

This letter is intended to be introductory to others which will furnish to all inquirers about this great country the fullest available information.

POLITICAL SUGGESTIONS.

A large number of democratic aspirants who have been waiting for civil service reform all these years didn't suppose it was going to work just as it does.—Milwaukee Journal.

The Jeffersonian simplicity of President Cleveland's inauguration cost $45,000. The difference between Jeffersonian simplicity and republican extravagance is hardly visible to the naked eye.—Minneapolis Tribune.

Senator Brown has had an application from a western man for the governorship of Alaska. This office is not quite so popular as mail agent on the Port Royal road. The grand chorus, however, is "anything, anywhere."—Washington (Ga.) Chronicle.

President Cleveland has been reported to be a man without fear. We trust that it is so. We hope that he will not be prevented from accomplishing a true reform of the government through fear of incurring the displeasure of the independent republicans.—New York Sun.

We believe the insufficient salaries paid to public officers is a mistake and a fault. The laborer is worthy of his hire. If we expect to make public officials as diligent, efficient and honest as persons employed in private business, we ought to pay them as well.—New York World.

The action of the republicans in proscribing democrats for twenty-four years renders it right and proper that the members of the latter party should be appointed to fill vacancies as a rule until an equilibrium between the parties is obtained. But the spoils system must go and is going.—Boston Herald.

President Cleveland may rest assured that in any real reform he will have hearty support. Neither the country nor the republican party desires to have any abuses continued which have grown up under past administrations. He will find fewer than he expects, but wherever he finds one we pray him to cut it off at once.—New York Tribune.

The old fashioned bourbons shake their heads, wink wisely and say, "Just hold on a bit, Cleveland will fix us all before long." Well, the naughty republicans seem to watch things with perfect complacency. If Grover "fixes" the democrats he alienates the mugwumps, and if he snubs the mossbacks he cuts his own throat.—Chicago Journal.

The New York World's [illegible] at the White house is [illegible] Cleveland [illegible] President Arthur received [illegible] it did not [illegible] the clerk's testimony to convince the public that seven democrats are seeking for office under Cleveland where one republican sought for office under Arthur.—New York Tribune.

Some office holders must go as they richly deserve to, but others who have not neglected their duties to further the plans of a party will be retained. Such a course may give offense to the advocates of the spoils system, but it will also give satisfaction to those who desire that the public service shall not be put to inconvenience or loss when one party steps out and another steps in.—New York Herald.

WORK ON THE CANADIAN PACIFIC.

March [illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In reply to a communication which appeared in your issue of yesterday, stating that wages and board on the Canadian Pacific railroad were not what I represented, I have to state that wages range from $1.75 to $2.50 for laborers and rockmen and board only $5 per week. No other class of labor is required at present. The signers of the communication were not sent as carpenters, but took their chance for labor as helpers, and I am assured by the general superintendent, who is in this city yesterday, that there is work for every man who is willing to accept labor or rock work, and to prove the falsity of the rumors from parties seeking soft jobs he is anxious that the press of Portland would send a representative over the road, when he will give special facilities for any information to satisfy the public that the board and accommodations are superior to those of any other railroad company.

I can bear witness personally to the fact that lumber and log houses with bunks are provided for each camp, and that no snow exists on the road. During my trip to the [illegible] I [illegible] [illegible] of men who were sent by me, all of whom [illegible] satisfied [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] positively assert [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] false representations.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

CHANCES FOR A RAILROAD WAR.—A good deal of interest is felt in railroad circles [illegible] over the meeting of the Transcontinental association which takes place in Denver this week, and the fight between the Union Pacific and Central Pacific will be eagerly watched. For the first time in its history the Union Pacific has a Pacific coast outlet which is in harmony with it, and is in a condition to make a fight as is a tight. A private telegram received here from Denver yesterday states that the association is not coming to an understanding, and that there is no hope at present for reaching any satisfactory conclusion. The Northern lines (the Northern and Union Pacific) have notified the southern lines that they intend to enter for San Francisco business. If this occurs, it will, of course, result in the southern lines invading the northern territory, and the plan in vogue during the last two months of 1883 will be resumed, viz., rates from the east to all Pacific coast points shall be identical. In other words, a passenger can buy a ticket from New York or Chicago to San Francisco via Portland, at the same rate as to Portland direct, and to Portland via San Francisco as cheap as to San Francisco only. Of course the O. R. & N. Co. and the Northern Pacific have no direct interest in the disagreement between the Union and the Central, but the impression prevails that they would not object to a fight and that they would not regret to see the transcontinental association split wide open. It is understood that the southern lines intend soon to withdraw the subsidy which has been paid to the northern lines ever since the Northern Pacific was completed, in which case the northern roads will make a strong fight for San Francisco business. There is little or no danger to be feared of successful retaliation by the southern lines on northern business, because the Oregon roads are likely to secure five dollars worth of business where they lose one. So far as through passenger travel is concerned, all the advantage will be on the side of the northern lines. No one will care to take the dusty Southern Pacific from San Francisco in summer when he can get the novelty and beauty of the Northern Pacific at the same price. Present appearances point to a bitter and long-continued fight.

THE DOG AND THE GUN.—With the return of spring all nature rejuvenesces and the blood flows through the aged veins of the veteran Peter Sykes with renewed vigor and the good old man feels as if he were young again. A day or two since he took down his trusty rusty gun, and whistling his tried and true dog of the yellow variety to heel started out to hunt for the possum and the coon. There are no possums in this country except one which was sent out by Wells, Fargo & Co's express from Tennessee a few years since to a man in Marion county at a cost of $80, and which escaped soon after its arrival. But there is nothing to keep a man from hunting for possum all the same. Sykes sauntered gaily along, enjoying the bright sunshine and inhaling large quantities of the balmy air redolent of spring's sweet odors, till he came to the butcher-shop of his friend Fritz, near First street bridge. Here he called a halt, stood at ease and commenced a discussion on the political situation. He said he was soon going to emigrate to Liberia or Siberia, as since a democratic president had been elected there was no more hope for the colored man in this country, and he did not propose to suffer injustice and contumely. Fritz listened patiently and at last asked Peter to allow him to examine the ancient fowling piece. He cocked it and glanced along the barrel with one eye while with the other he looked for some object to draw a bead on. Peter's yellow dog came within the angle of his vision, and Fritz at once took aim at it, and having covered the unfortunate animal, involuntarily pulled the trigger and blew a large hole through it. "You must have been loaded for bear," said Fritz, while Sykes glanced around in rage and said, "If there had not been a democratic president elected you would not have dared to do that. It is as I said, a colored man stands no more show in this country." Fritz hastened to apologize and explained that he had no idea the gun was loaded, and over sundry schooners of beer and by the promise of tenderloin steaks for one year, the matter was arranged without recourse to the courts. But Peter still thinks that if Cleveland had not been elected his dog would have been spared to him.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.—It makes a man tired to read the weather indications telegraphed to this paper every night from Washington and published the next morning. For the past ten days General Hazen has been sending us: "For north Pacific coast, light local rains." Occasionally he rings in a slight change like this: "Partly cloudy weather with local rains." Perhaps the general is so busy in his defense at the court martial that he cannot give strict attention to business, but we submit to a generous and justice-loving public whether in the interests of scientific truth, he hadn't better put on a competent "sub." The signal service is a fine thing when it works well, but it will not do for any man to prognosticate weather in Oregon. You can climb two steep stairs to the signal office in this city, and if you ask will be shown maps of storms in the Mississippi valley, and they have the thing down so fine that the route of the actual storm does not vary more than 10 per cent in extent or distance from the predicted storm, though the prognostications were made twenty four to thirty six hours in advance. But they have to go it blind on the webfoot country. Yesterday morning, for a change, Hazen telegraphed, "For northern Pacific coast, fair weather," and it was the first cloudy day we had for a fortnight. Of course, it does not make any difference to readers in Oregon and Washington, because the weather gets to them about as soon as THE OREGONIAN does, but it must puzzle readers back in Minnesota and Iowa, Manitoba, Berlin, Leipsic, Honolulu, Oskaloosa, Melbourne, Sunkem, Merv and Oshkosh, who really want to know about the weather. On the first page they read, upon the authority of an officer of the United States government and a general in its army, that it will rain. On the third page they read, upon the undisputed authority of the reporters, about sunshine and growing grass, and blossoms, and such weather as the angels in heaven would enjoy. General Hazen wants either to make better predictions, or say honestly that he don't know, or resign in favor of some one who will.

STEALING CANARY BIRDS.—Several persons called yesterday at the city jail, but were unable to identify the stolen canary bird recovered by the police. Each of these people had, however, lost a bird, which shows to what extent this particular kind of thieving has been carried on. This makes it the more probable that men, not boys, are the perpetrators. Canary birds are worth from $2 to $5 apiece, and as they usually find a ready sale, such thieving can be made very profitable. All over town cages containing canary birds are hung outside of windows or upon porches, and it is the easiest matter in the world for a thief to watch for and get a chance to steal the bird. They take only the bird, leaving the cage, not only because it is easier to conceal, but also because it has been held by the courts here that a canary bird is feræ naturæ and in consequence possession does not constitute ownership. When a bird and a cage is taken it is a theft, but when the bird alone is taken the law does not consider that a crime has been committed. When a man not a lawyer speaks of it however, he calls it stealing just the same, and if some of these thieves are caught they will find out that the possessor of the bird is feræ naturæ as well as the bird, and the thief will probably be torn to pieces. Some court now wants to hold that chickens are wild beasts and then cry havoc and let loose the dogs of war.

BELLIGERENT SEALS.—The fact that seals have come into the Columbia river in great numbers this season has been noticed several times. It is thought by some that this fact may have something to do with the absence of the usual run of smelt. The number of salmon in the river is very small and fishermen are complaining. J. A. Johnson, of Eagle Cliff, writes to C. A. Malarkey to say that he has $900 worth of new nets in the river every day and five men hard at work, and they cannot make a living. All hopes of taking smelt are not yet abandoned, but are daily growing dimmer. Seals are troublesome, and Mr Johnson says: "The seals stole four salmon out of my nets to-day and we had a hard fight with a sea lion. It was 15 feet long and was determined to get into the boat after a salmon. We had no gun and fought it off with a hatchet and a long pole." If the seals and sea lions are going to dispute with the fishermen for every salmon they catch there will be lots of fun on the river this season.

DISCOVERED TWO CORPSES.—Coroner Cooke went out to the "sheep pasture" to investigate in regard to the Chinaman reported to have been buried [illegible] the [illegible] two expressmen. He had [illegible] difficulty in finding the alleged grave as all [illegible] he had to do was to follow his nose. He found [illegible] a big black dog buried in a box, [illegible] a white [illegible] buried in a sack, [illegible] Chinaman. A nice shower would bring out the foliage and blossoms of the apple [illegible] [illegible] the flowers which are blooming in all the [illegible] Tulips were noticed in blossom yes[illegible]

PULLS FOR BOB.—The following from the San Francisco [illegible] will be read with interest here: A few months ago there came from the Webfoot state of the north a young man said to be the son of the district attorney of Portland. This young man had a friend who, as friends prove, was a bad one. The Webfoot young man's chum is the correspondent in this city of the Portland Standard, or a paper with a similar name. Among the letters to this journal was one that reflected on the district attorney's son by saying that the boy is the proprietor of a flourishing faro bank and poker den in this city. The old gentleman in the damp state [illegible] his son severely by letter and forwarded a copy of the Standard. The young man was very indignant and demanded a retraction of the charge, which was refused. The two agreed to fight it out with bare knuckles at the foot of Fifth street, but on taking a second consideration they decided to have it out according to law, and repairing to Harry Maynard's requested the use of his ring and hard gloves. For four rounds, M. Q. rules, they pummeled each other, and finally the writer of the objectionable article was vanquished, knocked out, as it were. 'That is the way for gentlemen to settle their difficulties and not use knives and pistols,' remarked Harry as the two retired mopping the claret from their noses."

CRIMINAL JUDGMENTS REVERSED.—Some time since Anton Lurch, a prominent merchant of Cottage Grove, Lane county, became bankrupt, and subsequent investigations showed that he had forged and hypothecated a number of notes signing the names of reputable and well-to-do farmers. He was indicted for forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses, was convicted and sentenced to thirty years' imprisonment in the penitentiary on the combined charges. The cases were appealed to the supreme court, and on Thursday decisions were rendered reversing the judgment of the lower court in two of the cases, viz: one in which he was charged with uttering a forged writing with intent to injure and defraud, and one for obtaining money under false pretenses. The cases were remanded for a new trial. In a third case where Lurch was charged with forgery the judgment of the lower court was confirmed.

THE CURIOUS HOLLADAY NOTE.—It was stated a few days since that District Attorney John M. Gearin intended to intervene in the suit between Joe and Ben Holladay, make a sort of mediator of himself, as it were, and endeavor to scoop the claim for the school fund and leave the brethren the shells to wrangle over. Mr Gearin filed an answer in the suit yesterday. He admits that upon October 1, 1871, Ben was indebted to Joe $100,000, but denies that at any time before the execution of the $163,445 note the interest on said indebtedness had accrued to amount to $60,000 or to any amount greater than $45,000, and that Joe contracted to receive a greater rate of interest than 12 per cent per annum. On this account it is asked that the note be forfeited and the sum of $151 450 be paid to the county.

SUFFERED SEVERE SCALP WOUNDS.—By the upsetting of a dog cart on one of the roads in the outskirts of the city Thursday afternoon, Ralph Dowing, aged 7, suffered serious but fortunately not fatal wounds about the head and face. He was with his grandmother, Mrs. John L. Smith, at the time of the accident. She escaped unharmed when the cart upset, but one of the wheels passed over the boy's head, tearing up the scalp and inflicting serious bruises. Mrs. Smith succeeded in preventing a runaway, and righting the cart brought her grandson into town, where his wounds were attended to by Drs. Hunt and Owens-Adair. There was no fracture of the skull, and the little fellow will be all right in a few days.

FROM ONE OF THE WRECKED CREW.—In a letter received last evening by Chaplain Stubbs from one of the wrecked crew of the Kirkwood, the writer says: "Our ship was lost on the rocks about 400 miles from the Fastnet light, on the Irish coast. After we had been three days on the wreck a passing steamer lowered a boat to take us off. The sea was running very high and the boat was instantly smashed. They then lowered another boat and successfully manned her with a crew of six men. With great effort and difficulty they came near enough to take us off by means of lines, and we were all safely taken off, having been drawn through the surf, and were taken to the steamer, and finally we were landed in Liverpool."

SUICIDE OF A SOLDIER.—Jacob Lorenz, a German soldier stationed at Vancouver, W. T., committed suicide by hanging yesterday. The body was found at an early hour by the watchman hanging to a beam on the government wharf. The suicide had evidently got on a block, attached a rope to one of the beams overhead, and putting the noose around his neck, had kicked the block out from under him. The deed was done some time early in the night, for life had been extinct several hours when the body was first discovered. Deceased was cook for the crew of the little government tugboat Dispatch, and was about 50 years old. No cause is known for the deed.

NOT APPROVED.—The findings of the court martial in the case of Capt. Farrar of Company G were submitted to Brigadier General Kautz, who has returned them with his disapproval. And now the question recurs in the original motion, and what will become of Capt. Farrar. It will not be according to Gunter or Hoyle to let the business drop at this stage in the game, but as Capt. Farrar was found not guilty of the charges preferred against him, what the deuce will he be arraigned upon next time? But as under military law a man's life can be placed in jeopardy just lots of times, perhaps a man can be tried more than once by courtmartial for the same (alleged) crime.

SUING FOR REWARD.—Suit was commenced in the state circuit court yesterday by ex-Policeman J. H. E. Cramer against S. B. Parrish, J. N. James and Orin Smith, to recover a check for $1000. A few months since the board of underwriters of San Francisco, offered a reward of $1000 for the arrest of any one who should be convicted of arson or attempted arson. The notorious Maguire, who set fire to several warehouses, was arrested by Cramer and afterwards convicted and sent to the penitentiary. Cramer claims that a check for $1000 was sent to Chief Parrish by the board of underwriters, and that the check belongs to him and it is unlawfully held by Chief Parrish.

JUDGMENT REVERSED.—In department No. 2 of the state circuit court yesterday Judge Stearns ordered that the judgment in the case of William Dalton et al vs The City of East Portland et al be reversed, and judgment entered against defendants for costs and disbursements. Dalton sued the city of East Portland to recover street assessments paid under protest. The city was victorious and Dalton appealed the case to the supreme court, which reversed the decision of the lower court. The recorder of East Portland was last night notified of the decree reversing the judgment, and ordered to pay Mr Dalton back the money.

BAPTIST MEETINGS.—The meetings at the First Baptist church this week have been so full of interest that it is thought best to have four services next week Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights. The pastor's Sunday evening sermons to the young people are drawing crowded houses. These sermons are separate and distinct, so that the failure to hear one does not impair interest in any other. To-morrow the topic will be on "Conscience and Cowardice." On every Sunday evening for months the ordinance of baptism has been administered in this church. The same rite will be observed to-morrow evening. All these services are open to the public.

ENJOYING A HALF HOLIDAY.—Judge Smith of department No. 1 of the state circuit court came very near having a holiday yesterday. The case of Adam Bender vs. Antoine Block, which had been set down for trial, was settled and dismissed, and another case was obliged to be postponed on account of the absence of an important witness. So the judge made an order confirming the sale of the Fisher property, and then strolled forth to view the beauties of nature and listen to the glad songs of the birds, a delightful change to his honor, whose tympanum must be getting calloused with the unending noise of legal disputes.

INTERESTING MEETING AT THE BETHEL.—The open temperance meeting at the bethel last evening was unusually interesting. Although the attendance was not large, five persons took the pledge, and the testimonies of the speakers, who related their history and experiences in relation to the drinking usages in the different countries were very striking and affecting. The [illegible] of the W. C. T. U. are [illegible] good work [illegible] and Miss Stull [illegible] [illegible]

CHILD DROWNED.—Little Rex Hume, youngest son of Peter Hume of Brownsville, was drowned in the mill race at that village on Wednesday last. No one knows how it happened, for Mrs. Hume was the first to miss her boy, supposing him to be at the store with his father. A thorough search for the child resulted finally in dragging the water where the body was found.

DEATH OF [illegible].—A telegram from Mal[illegible] [illegible], announces the death yesterday in that city of Dr. N. [illegible] Ladd, the venerable father of Mr W. S. Ladd of this city. His age was 82 years. The funeral will take place next Monday, on which day Ladd & Tilton's bank will be closed.

THE BEST TONIC.

This medicine combining Iron with pure vegetable tonics, quickly and completely Cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weakness, Impure Blood, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, and Neuralgia.

It is an unfailing remedy for Diseases of the Kidneys and Liver.

It is invaluable for Diseases peculiar to Women, and all who lead sedentary lives.

It does not injure the teeth, cause headache or produce constipation—other iron medicines do.

It enriches and purifies the blood, stimulates the appetite, aids the assimilation of food, relieves Heartburn and Belching, and strengthens the muscles and nerves.

For Intermittent Fevers, Lassitude, Lack of Energy, &c., it has no equal.

The genuine has above trade mark and crossed red lines on wrapper. Take no other.

Our present stock many thousands of dollars.

Our store is the largest in this city, but too small to hold all our goods now here and en route.

The surplus must be disposed of, and we wish to again call attention to this matter, and to emphasize the fact that the stock displayed is the best and cheapest ever offered in this market.

RESTAURANT, HOTEL AND HOUSEKEEPERS

Are informed that we have just received 98 crates of White Granite and Decorated Crockery, direct from Liverpool, and our stock being already too large, we are offering articles in this line at a very slight advance on invoice rates.

OUR LAMP STOCK

Cannot be equaled on this coast for completeness in variety and cheapness. Our rich Gold, Ebony and French Bronze Library Lamps and Chandeliers evidently meet all requirements, judging from the continued demand and large sales both in the city and country.

We are not silversmiths, but any one would naturally think so, looking at the number of Elegant Casters, Water and Cream Pitchers, Knives, Forks and Spoons, etc., that glisten in our show-cases and adorn our shelves. We keep only the BEST goods of the latest patterns.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK March 20 Governments [illegible] and unchanged Railway bonds [illegible] with limited business A feature of to-day's stocks was heavy trading [illegible] Pacific Mail accompanied by further decline in the stock of 4[illegible] Complications growing out of the fight [illegible] the Pacific railroads and the notice of the Union Pacific to the Pacific Mail Steamship [illegible] of its intention to discontinue the subsidy paid by the railroads to that company were further complicated to-day by a notice from the Central Pacific This settles the question as to the formality of [illegible] to the steamship company Unless a adjusted arrangement between the different companies is effected it is [illegible] the monthly payments of about $95,000 by the railroads to the Pacific Mail after the expiration of the time required by the old contract A new agreement, with a reduction in the subsidy was hinted at to-day, but President Houston of the Pacific Mail is credited with the statement that no proposition looking to a reduction of the amount received by his company would be considered

There has been heavy selling for short account but it is believed to-night that insiders including some directors who were heavy holders of Pacific Mail have unloaded Late this afternoon the stock sold down to 49¼ and closed with the last sale at 49⅝, and 49¾ bid This is a decline of about [illegible] per cent in the past three days Trading in that stock to-day amounted to over 80,000 shares or 8 per cent of the total day's business

The general market opened strong, and in the first hour made slight gains, the bulls being aided in their efforts to [illegible] the market by the disposition of the bears to realize profits With this check to the general decline the market may be called dull. Prices remained steady after the first hour until after midday, when considerable weakness developed in Union Pacific

During the afternoon a statement was published that Gould had sent a letter to President Adams of the Union Pacific declining re-election as member of the board of directors of the company This and a general impression which prevails that complications between the Union and Central Pacific companies were [illegible] assuming a more [illegible] character were the causes for a break in Union Pacific, which sold down to 41⅞ and closed [illegible] at 42⅜ a loss of [illegible] per cent Lackawanna Texas Pacific and Missouri Pacific also suffered declines of ¾@⅞c

In the face of the weakness in the stocks above mentioned Vanderbilts and grangers were [illegible] ably strong, although they yielded a fraction [illegible] during the last hour

JEFFERSON DAVIS

[illegible] Letter to Jefferson Davis

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, CHARLESTON January 21, 1865

To President Davis Richmond, Va. — I am so impressed with the belief that in the military operations of the next few days in this state the fate of the confederation itself is deeply involved, that I am here to urge upon Gen. Hardee the defense of Charleston to the last moment, in the hope that meanwhile reinforcements will enable him to hold it.

I am using all influence with Gov. Brown and Gov Vance to keep our states together, and each gives its help to the other. But confidence is almost lost and hope is, to a great extent gone. To restore these and rally the people here and elsewhere there must be a standpoint [illegible] which all [illegible] look as the place where the purpose and strength of our government are exhibited. Circumstances have plainly made Charleston and its connections that place. The loss of them, [illegible] other losses, would [illegible] dismay and I fear that such a loss will be taken as [illegible] without life or hope, and any effectual resistance cannot be [illegible] Many telegrams from adjoining states confirms these apprehensions most fully. Give [illegible] the help with which he can [illegible] and I assure you the spirit of [illegible] Not to sustain him is [illegible] the belief that our cause [illegible] letter to General Lee, written [illegible] days I repeat to you what I have said [illegible] It is because I feel the fate of Charleston and [illegible] Branchville will to a great extent determine [illegible] the state, and with it the cause of the confederation that I urge the necessity for [illegible] in the most impressive manner [illegible] surely fall when Charleston is [illegible] Richmond until Charleston [illegible] both. If Charleston can [illegible] and in doing that the means [illegible] for the whole confederation [illegible] preserved, then, although [illegible] Charleston might last [illegible] Richmond, yet to [illegible] will not delay is to me the ob[illegible] God forbid [illegible] urge you to give up [illegible] that can be saved [illegible] to delay that [illegible] accomplish any good [illegible] In the [illegible] let me again say to you, that every [illegible] of the last consequence [illegible]

A G MAGRATH

Governor [illegible] Final Appeal to Jefferson Davis

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, Jan 22, 1865

My Dear [illegible] My letter and telegrams to you, my letter [illegible] Mr Barnwell and that to Gen Lee will [illegible] have so fully explained my views in relation to our present condition that nothing but the importance of that condition and the fear I have for the consequences, should such disasters befall us induce me to write again to you urgently upon the subject of succ[illegible]

General Hardee is prepared to defend Charleston to any extremity But to defend Charleston even to the last extremity will not secure for us success in our struggle. To do that the defense must be successful To be successful more troops must be sent to his aid

If the cause in fact, be desperate, then the duty of the portion of the army that is here and with it the death of every one who prefers that rate to submission, would be a high duty And that duty could be nowhere more fitly performed than in that city which first proclaimed secession, and in the state which first adopted it. If the cause is not desperate, then the safety
